As the wind rustles through the sugar cane, the eerie calm is broken by the roar of tires on a dirt road, when a modern town car zooms by. It pulls up and three men get out. Who are they? What is their mission?
Stick around, it's about to get messy.

Director's Statement

"I wrote and directed this short, dark comedy, Landscape ^{no.} 4, as a proof of concept for my next feature film, The Engineers. I was particularly interested in exploring the fine line between nothingness and chaos - the idea that before everything happens, nothing happens. I was lucky to work with an amazing cast and crew, who helped bring my vision to life in the best possible way."
